Each Has Her Own Universe, Why shouldn't a woman be interested in herself? If she isn't she may rest assured no one else will be. Isn't she interested in her headaches and neuralgia, bunions and other ills? Then why not in the things that afford her pleasure or satisfaction? No one will deny her this privilege. Every woman Ust to almost cry fer Christmas, like is the center of a little universe. It may consist of either ills or pleasures, or both, yet it is all her own, and she will not thank any one for meddling with it. To be popular, however, a woman must get outside of her own little universe when other women are about, because each of these has a universe of her own which she is anxious to have recognized. Whoever accommodates her in this will be regarded as being perfectly lovely and a real sensible lady. It requires some nerve to drop your own little universe and

KENNEDY'S MEDICAL DISCOVERY

DONALD KENNEDY, OF ROXBURY, MASS., Has discovered in one of our common pasture weeds a remedy that cures every kind of Humor, from the worst Scrofula down to a common Pimple.

He has tried it in over eleven hundred cases, and never failed except in two cases (both thunder humor). He has now in his possession over two hundred certificates of its value, all within twenty miles of Boston. Send postal card for book. A benefit is always experienced from the first bottle, and a perfect cure is warranted when the right quantity is taken. When the lungs are affected it causes shooting pains, like needles passing through them; the same with the Liver or Bowels. This is caused by the ducts being stopped, and always disappears in a week after taking it. Read the label. If the stomach is foul or billous it will cause squeamish feelings at first. No change of diet ever necessary. Eat the best you can get, and enough of it.

Dose, one tablespoonful in water at bed-

"Take It Aisy."

One cannot travel in Ireland without perceiving that the so-many-horse-power and perpetual catching-of-trains theory of life is not one that is accepted by the Irish people, and I do not think it ever will be. Their religion, their traditions, their chief occupations, their temperament, all of which I suppose are closely allied, are opposed to it.

The saying, "Take it alsy, and if you can't take it aisy, take it as aisy as you can," doubtless represents their theory of life, and, for my part, if it were a question either of dialectics or of morals, I would sooner have to defend that view of existence than the so-manyhorse-power one. So far from a wise man getting all he can out of himself in one direction, he will, it seems to me, rigidly and carefully abstain from doing so in the interests of that catholic and harmonious development which requires that he should get a little out of himself in every direction.

One would not like to assert that the bulk of the Irish people are "harmoniously developed." But neither, if I may be permitted to say so, are the English, or the Scotch people, and as, in reality, all three probably err by lobsided activity or lobsided inactivity, it still remains to be seen whether too much perpetual catching of trains, or too much taking it aisy, is, on the whole, the wiser course, and the less insane interpretation of the purport and uses of life.-Blackwood's Maga-

Why His Mother-in-Law Came. A new boy arrived at my house last Saturday. He seems to understand his business and uses the same kind of noise as other children of his age. He arrived by the light of a kerosene lamp, but I hope this will not be used against him if he ever runs for superintendent of schools, which, however, I understand he doesn't intend to do. It seems to be the general hope of my friends that he will make a better man than his father. This thought, or wish, has also occurred to me-in the dark. I am glad now that my mother-in-law is here, although it hadn't occurred to me before why she came. She seems to be perfectly at home with new babies, and has already turned several suggestions of mine to the wall. There were some clothes made for a girl baby down to my house, but, as no business appeared under that head, the buttons were sewed on boy-fashion, and they will have to do.-Grafton (N. D.) Record.

A WOMAN'S HEART.

ONE DISEASE THAT BAFFLES THE PHYSICIAN.

The Story of a Woman Who Suffered for Nine Years-How She Was Cared.

(From the Newark, N. J., Evening News.) Valvular disease of the heart has always been considered incurable. The following interview, therefore, will interest he medical the successful use of a new treatment for this disease. The patient is Mrs. Geo. Archer, of Clifton, N. J., and this publication by the News is the first mention of the case made by any newspaper. All physicians consulted pronounced the pa-tient suffering with valvular disease of the heart, and treated her without the slightest relief. Mrs. Archer said: "I could not walk across the floor; neither could I go up stairs without stopping to let the pain in my chest and left arm cease. I felt an awful constriction about my arm and chest as though I were tied with ropes. Then there was a terrible noise at my right ear, like the labored breathing of some great animal. I have often turned expecting to see some creature at my side.

"Last July," continued Mrs. Archer, "I was at Springfield, Mass., visiting, and my mother showed me an account in the Springfield Examiner, telling of the won-derful cures effected by the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. My mother urged me to try the pills, and on November 25th last I bought a box and began taking them, and I have been tak-ing them ever since, except for a short in-terval. The first box did not seem to beaefit me, but I persevered, encouraged by the requests of my relatives. After beginning on the second box, to my wonder, the noise at my right ear ceased entirely. I kept right on, and the distress that I used to feel in my chest and arm gradually disappeared. The blood has returned to my face, lips and ears, which were entirely devoid of color, and I feel well and strong again.

"My son, too, had been troubled with gastritis, and I induced him to try the Pink Pills, with great benefit. I feel that everybody ought to know of my wonder-ful cure, and I bless God that I have found something that has given me this Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally acting directly proper the blood stitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Curo is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and uncous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. A physician in the Medical and Sur-Holmes. It was when a son had been born to him, and, while he was usually "Gentlemen, I know I'm late, but there then, with an expression such as only Holmes' face could assume, he continued: "Now, can any one tell me what well-known business firm in Boston he is like?" There was no answer. "He is Little & Brown," said the Doctor, with a twinkle in his eye. That was a good advertisement for Little & Brown, but it is probable that that ploneer of American humorists, "John Phoenix," gave another Boston firm a better one. Entering a large store in that city one day he said to one of the proprietors, "I think I would like to tuttle a little." "To tuttle! What do you mean by that?" "I don't know," gravely replied the humorist, "but I read an invitation ever the door, 'Call & Tuttle,' and thought I would like to know how to do it."

"I bought this of a traveling man," he said, "and I feel sure it isn't what it ought to be. I'd give five dollars to know what would make the water and oil in this preparation separate." The chemist looked at it.

"Very well," he said, "give me the five dollars, and I will tell you." The visitor promptly handed him a five-dollar bill.

The chemist took it gravely, and then, removing the cork from the bottle, quietly dropped into the liquid a pinch of common salt. Instantly the water and oil separated.

The man's face was a study. He had got what he wanted, and had paid his own price for it. The chemist evidently felt that he was well paid by his visitor's astonishment, however, and returned the five dollars with a laugh.

One Family's Wealth.

In round numbers the Rothschilds own at present 10,000,000,000 francs ($2,000,000,000). A tenth part of this immense wealth is in the possession of the French branch of the family. In 1875 the Rothschilds owned less than a thousand millions; their wealth has, therefore, more than doubled within the last eighteen years. It has been calculated that in 1965 this enormous wealth will have increased to $60,000,-000,000. The interest of this immense capital would be sufficient to support 37,000,000 human beings, or about the population of France. Yet the grandfather of the Rothschilds did not own a penny in 1800; his wonderful financial success dates since the battle of Waterloo .-- Translated from Paris Le Signal.
